261 Primarily documentation from the appeals process of the Coastal Zone ACT as administered by the Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Control.
270 An application for a Coastal Zone Permit is necessary for any new or expanded manufacturing activity that will have an impact on the environment, the economy, the aesthetics or neighboring land uses. After Department staff review the application, a public hearing is held, and if the Secretary approves, a Permit is issued. If the Secretary disapproves the application, the applicant may appeal to the Industrial Control Board.
This collection of documents contains appeals, transcripts from appeal hearings, and decisions. These lengthy appeal files outline concerns and plans for remedy. Also found among these records are correspondence with appealing bodies or agents of and internal correspondence from the Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Control. Photos, charts, maps, and correspondence are included among selected evidence in appeal files. With regard to public hearings, these files offer sign in sheets from public hearings and publishing affidavits with news clippings.
