261 Record of accounts of customer business transactions with Troth, Haworth and Campion, a firm in the wholesale notion business located in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. This volume was used as evidence in a New Castle County Court of Chancery case, during the September Term of 1873, involving James R. C. Oldham versus Robert Lewis Armstrong, the Sheriff of New Castle County, and others. The respondent was seeking a court injunction to nullify a judgement rendered by the New Castle County Superior Court in April of 1873. This firm was organized on January 1, 1866 and dissolved on January 1, 1869.
