261 Zadock Aydelott and his son, John H., operated a general store in Baltimore Hundred along the Blackwater Creek. The daybook is a record of the daily sales and receipts at the store.
270 The volume shows the date, name of customer, items purchased, cost, and cash or produce paid. Zadock Aydelott died in 1836 and the last two pages reflect the settlement of his estate. The store continued to be operated by John H. Aydelott until 1838 when it was sold to Ebe Tunnell. See accession file for more information about the store and family.
