261 Store accounts of the Midland Grange Company, Georgetown, Delaware. The store may be a cooperative for Grange members.
270 The volume is both a journal and a ledger. The journal section shows the date, name of customer, items purchased or brought in for credit, whether debit or credit, amount, and if settled or paid. The ledger section shows the name of the customer, date, items purchased, and price. At the back of the volume is an account of the daily totals. For each day, the amount of cash, trade, credit, and amount sold is given. Three pages seem to have been used to record a farmer's accounts, 1912-13. The folder has account pages that were removed from a volume. They contain ledger and journal entries.
