DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (if known) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

Barratt's Chapel is a two-story brick meeting house with a west gable-end frontage.

The south wall, facing the cemetery, is laid in Flemish bond with a glazed header pattern. In the center of this wall is a double door, flanked by two windows. Three second-story windows light the gallery.

The west, or front, wall is laid in unglazed Flemish bond brick, with diaper patterns in glazed brick on the face of the attic story. Two belt courses appear on this facade; the lower one divides the first and second stories, and the upper one separates the second story from the attic. There are three doors in the first floor of this facade, and on the second story there are three windows. A window has been cut into the attic story, destroying a segment of the diapered brick design.

The north wall is laid in common bond, with three windows on each story. The east gable wall is covered with stucco. An off-center doorway in this wall provides access to the chancel.

Exterior shutters follow the Delaware tradition of solid shutters on the first floor, with louvered shutters above. The box cornices on the north and south facades are elaborately moulded, and return onto the gable end to create a seat to receive the bargeboard.

The interior is arranged as a traditional aisled hall. Square posts extend from the ground to the rafters, in two rows parallel to the north and south sidewalls. A three-sided gallery is hung from these posts and from the north, west, and south walls. A wooden floor and simple open bench pews, finished in rustic fashion, appear to date from the first quarter of the nineteenth century. Against the east

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

In the summer of 1780 Philip Barratt gave the Methodist Society a plot of land, near the Murderkill River in Kent County, Delaware. The two-story brick meeting house, named in honor of Barratt, was begun immediately.

Barratt's Chapel was the first church in Kent County that was built especially for Methodist worship, and one of the first two erected in Delaware.

For two generations, the interior remained in an unfinished condition, with only dirt floors and no heat; in spite of these primitive conditions, Barratt's Chapel was the best meeting house in America belonging to the Methodists as a house of worship. St. George's in Philadelphia was, at this time, serving as a barracks and stable for the British army.

Barratt's Chapel today is known as the "Cradle of American Methodism" because of its unique place in the development of the denomination. It was here that Dr. Thomas Coke and the Reverend Francis Asbury, later the first two Methodist bishops, met to make the preliminary arrangements for the formation of the Methodist Episcopal Church in America. Here the sacramental ordinances were first administered to Methodist communicants on American soil by duly authorized Methodist ministers, Dr. Coke and the Reverend Richard Whatcoat.

According to Scharf's History of Delaware, "The edifice was forty-two by forty-eight feet, two stories high, and had a vestry room connected with it. There is a tradition that the brick of which it was built were imported from Holland, which is improbable, as the clay in the immediate vicinity is as good as any in the world for bricks and the art of making bricks was already well-known...The house was furnished with a pulpit and occupied as a place of worship...The old fashioned high pulpit which was ~~reached~~ by a flight of steps and which almost concealed the preacher from his congregation has been remodeled to suit modern ideas; but the seat or wooden bench, upon which Bishops Coke and Asbury, and other pioneers of the church, sat, is still preserved as a memento For the first sixty years of its existence the ground was the only flooring and the walls were left in an uncouth and primitive state."

Dear Bill:

It was a pleasure to see you last week. As I mentioned, it would be quite helpful if you could expedite a number of our nominations. Another matter has come up which may require special attention. I am enclosing herewith the nomination form for Barratt's Chapel, together with a copy of a covering letter and grant application that I have sent to Richard Mehring. Since we are applying for emergency funding at Mr. Mehring's suggestion, I would appreciate your expediting the registration of this property.

We would have applied for this funding in the course of our regular program, but the matter had not been brought to our attention at that time. The architect was not aware of the serious faults in the wall until he began work. When he discovered the serious condition of the wall, he revised his proposals and recommended an immediate reconstruction.

The reputation of this architect is such that we have no fears that the historical integrity of Barratt's Chapel will be damaged. The $1,600 grant will permit him to have the wall stripped and to make the necessary drawings and photographs. The historical society that owns the property has promised to execute the necessary papers.

Sincerely,

E. Berkeley Tompkins, Director

Dear Mr. Mehring:

I enclose herewith an emergency grant application for Barratt's Chapel, near Frederica, Delaware. A nomination form for this property has been submitted to Dr. Murtagh. We have canvassed the State Review Board concerning this project, and they approve.

We are asking for $1,600 to permit a study of the east wall of the chapel, which must be rebuilt from the ground up. Since the rebuilding will require the removal of evidence that may be embedded in the original east wall, the architect is anxious to make the study before the wall is demolished.

The architect on this project is John F. McCune, who worked with Albert Kruse on the Old New Castle Court House project. Kruse is assisting McCune at Barratt's Chapel. They have selected a workman who has done restoration work for them to do the stripping.

Since an emergency exists, we would like to get approval of this grant as quickly as possible. The wall must be rebuilt before cold weather sets in, which means that we have very little time.

For your office reference, I also enclose a copy of the nomination form for Barratt's Chapel.

Sincerely,

E. Berkeley Tompkins, Director
