

Milford Through The Years

A PICTORIAL HISTORY OF MILFORD, DELAWARE

Published by
Milford Historical Society

DELAWARE STATE ARCHIVES

Milford Through The Years

A PICTORIAL HISTORY OF MILFORD, DELAWARE

Published by
Milford Historical Society

DELAWARE STATE ARCHIVES

St. John's R. C. Church, Milford, Del.

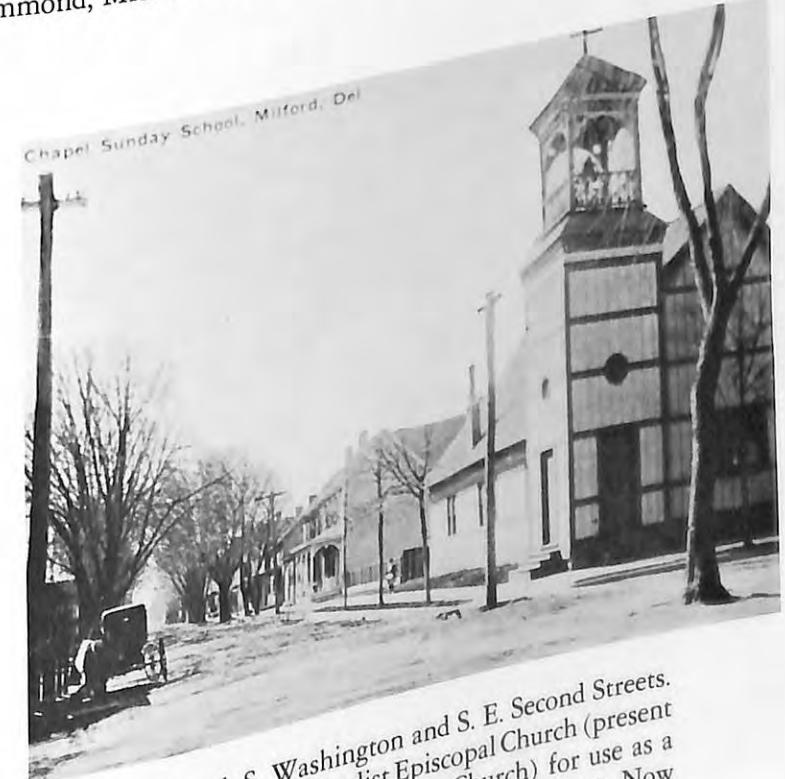

St. John's Roman Catholic Church, Peabody (now Maple) Avenue. This building was moved from the site after construction of the present building and its dedication on November 25, 1954.

Ground Breaking for present Avenue United Methodist Church building circa 1939. (L. to r.) Gov. Richard C. McMullen, Dr. G. Layton Grier, Dr. Frank Herson, Pastor, Mr. G. Roland Messick, Mr. I. D. Short.

Ground Breaking Ceremony in 1951 for an addition to the building of Avenue United Methodist Church. L. to r., front row: Dr. T. C. Mulligan, District Superintendent, Mr. J. Roland Messick, Mr. I. D. Short, Dr. O. V. James, Mr. M. Haswell Pierce, Mr. William V. Sipple, Jr., Mr. Brown P. Thawley, Rev. Roy G. Tawes, Pastor; back row: Rev. Fred Marvel, William D. Kimmel, Jr., Miss Anna Prettyman, Mrs. Kelly, Mr. Garrett L. Grier, Mr. Clayton Emory, Mr. Edgar Isaacs, Jr., Miss Elizabeth Hammond, Mrs. Charles Varney.

Chapel, S. Washington and S. E. Second Streets. Built by the Methodist Episcopal Church (present Avenue United Methodist Church) for use as a Sunday School and other church meetings. Now owned by Milford JayCees.

Methodist Episcopal Church, Church Avenue in 1917.

First Presbyterian Church shown before it was enlarged by the addition to the front in 1954.
The church was built in 1850.

First Baptist Church, N. W. Second Street, replaced by a new building on Old Shawnee Road.

First Methodist Protestant Church, S. E. Front
Street, built 1912, destroyed by fire March 3, 1951.

St. Paul's Church. Second building for the congregation of present Avenue United Methodist Church, later used as a town hall and as a conserve factory. Now it is again a house of worship for the congregation of St.
Paul's United Methodist Church.